uDevGame — The Macintosh Game Programming Contest

This program was originally entered into a Macintosh game programming contest called uDevGame held by iDevGames.com.

As per the conditions of entry into the contest, all contestants were required to provide the source code of their entries which would later be made public in accordance with their choice of a limited number of licensing arrangements.

To see the source code for other entries or for further information on the contest which is held annually, please visit:

http://www.idevgames.com/

A wide range of other Macintosh gaming source code is also made available at the site.

Questions concerning this package should be addressed to the original developer. For further assistance, please contact: editor@idevgames.com